Introduction

This life simulation is imitation of real life, where one can make his/her own decisions of life and based on those decisions, certain events will take place. These events also include irrationality, sudden and unexpected consequences of decisions; just like reality. This life simulator revolves around individuals and their relationships. It's basically like living a second life, where one can make any decision of their own and control their life.

Intro

- The website is a text-based life simulator where you make various choices through different life stages, monitor character stats, and play minigames. The outcome of your run-through depends on the choices you make.
